Summary of Yesterday's News. —Advices received by the National Board of Health from Havana, for the week ending July 1, reports 15 deaths from yellow fever and about 50 cases.

—William Johnson, colored, who killed Pleasant Simmons, colored, at Danville, Va., on the 7th of last month, was yesterday convicted in the Corporation Court of mur-der in the second degree and sentenced to sixteen years' imprisonment in the peni-tentiary. The Jury which convicted him was composed of eight negroes and four dition by the President.

—There was a terrible boiler explosion Wednesday afternoon in Truppe district, Talbot Co., Md. A portable engine, used for threshing out wheat, exploded and was blown up in the air to a height of thirty-five yards. Solomon Merrick, James H. White and Alexander Bantrim, the latter colored, were killed outright. All were fearfully scalded, and Bantrim's back and neck were broken. James Cox, colored, was mortally broken. James Cox, colored, was mortally scalded and cannot live. Mr. Edward Sheehan is badly though not dangerously scalded. Four other hands received severe injuries from scalding, &c. A valuable horse was killed. The explosion was caused by allowing water in the boiler to get too low and then filling suddenly with cold water.

Protection for | Presidents.

To the Editor of The Evening Critic: To the Editor of The Evening Critic;

Under the head of "No Body Guards Wanted," "F. F." communicates certain of his views to the Post of the 6th and refers to to THE CRITIC article of Wednesday by asking, as a rejoinder, "if the almost superhuman precautions of the Russian court preserved the late Czar. Was it only when body guards were unknown that kings and opporture met five to five madmen and body guards were unknown that kings and emperors met face to face madmen and assassins?" No human precautions can absolutely prevent murder and assassina-tion; but doubtless the Czar would have been killed many years sooner had it not been for the wise precautions that were taken. We only advocate such as are wise and prudent, and among the forces to be employed for the nurnoss the military must employed for the purpose the military must be included, not to be used ostentatiously and unnecessarily, but according to the dieand unnecessarily, but according to the dictates of common sense. The army is simply an armed force to preserve the peace, and who dare say that educated loyal soldiers will not be as suitable guards as even our very good Metropolitan police? The combination of the three organized forces are necessary—military, police and detectives—and the sooner this is recognized and acted on the safer our Presidents will be. And, although "F. F." and other Fourth of July freedom shrickers may shout till they are although "F. F." and other Fourth of July freedom shrickers may shout till they are hearse that "the grand American Republic needs no reconstruction," it goes on with progressive reconstruction from year to year. The plain, irresistible fact has to be met and provided for by suitable legislation, that our Presidents have too much power, too much responsibility, too many cares—in short, too much work. Various remedies will be prescribed. We have ours when the time comes to propose it. X. when the time comes to propose it.

How it makes a fellow sw-perspire.

An elephantine trade on a heavy scale is amounced as just springing up between New York and the distant island of Ceylonthat most lovely gem of the India Ocean. This is the importation of the elephas Isdicas, three splendid specimens of which are now in Boston awaiting transportation facilities to this city. These elephants, which are claimed to be the largest of their species that have ever been brought either to Europe or America, reached Boston on the steamer Hansa, consigned to Messra. Charles Reiche & Brother, of New York, who brought them from their home in the queen of the spice islands. They were shipped from Ceylon to Hamburg, and thence to London, where the Hansa received them. They are reported to be all very large; but An elephantine trade on a heavy scale is

In charging the grand jury yesterday Judge Ludlow said: "You, gentlemen, have been called from your homes as representative men tostake part in the administration of the criminal law. We meet to-day under adverse circumstances. We are under the shadow of a great cloud and our hearts beat with alternate hope and fear. We do not yet know what the end will be, but this we all understand, that law and order must prevail, that the constituted authorities must be respected and sustained, and woe betide the man who dares to raise even so much as his little finger against the integrity of the republic or against the life or lives of its lawfully elected officers. I care not what may be your politics, faith or religious feelings. I know this, that as Americans you represent not only the citizens of this country, but in a sense Americans everywhere, all over this land, and you will join with me in as severe a condemnation of this anti-American crime as can be uttered in human language and in a devout prayer to the Almighty that the life of the legally elected and inanguage. a devout prayer to the Almighty that the life of the legally elected and inangurated President of the United States may be spared to the nation and to his family."

By way of explanation of the "economy," it was found in the analysis, by use of a powerful microscope, that, instead of

The steamer Excelsior, on her afternoon trip to Quantico, yesterday, encountered a severe squall in Occoquan Bay, having reached that place about 6:15 o'clock. The squall came up very suddenly, but just as quick were the officers and hands at their posts, and in a few seconds all was ready for the blow. Several ladies were fright-ened and made sick, but otherwise no damage was done. The boat reached Quantico with loss of a few minutes' time, but in good season to make connection with the trains South.

The storm caught the steamer Arrowsmith three miles below Cedar Point. The vessel was kept well out in the stream, the engines slowed up and all proper precautions taken to withstand the storm, which blew for fifteen minutes a perfect gale. Af-ter the storm the steamer made the landing at Cedar Point and proceeded to the city, which she reached at 12 o'clock, three hours late. A number of the friends of those on board were at the wharf to meet her.

A heavy storm of lightning, wind and rain passed over Alexandria from the west about 6 o'clock.

-The revised ordinances of the city of Chicago contain a most admirable feature. It provides for the punishment of the flends who throw orange and banana peels fiends who throw orange and banana peels upon the sidewalk, and arranges to mulet them in sums of not less than two dollars for each and every offense. The law appears under the head of "Miscellaneous Practices," which is a weak classification. If there is any such head in the statutes as "Heinous and Incendiary Conspiracies," or "Desperate Attempts upon Human Life," it had better be placed under it at once. The Chicago physicians say a considerable part of their practice comes from persons injured by falling on banana peels, but, with a sentiment of self-sacrifice to the public a sentiment of self-sacrifice to the public interest which is most praiseworthy, they say the law is a good one and should be en-

A young man with the good clothes of a bunko steerer and the glad, effulgent look of a great man who is comfortably full, went into the Laramic City Boomer any office lately and, after some mental labor, produced the following, which he desired inserted for two weeks on the fourth page.

"Season of 1881.—Grand farewell bridal tour of the only double-and-twisted, all-wool aggregation, the world's congress of wonders and torchlight procession of arenic talent, headed by a living phalanx of gold-bespattered chariots and winged monsters of the briny deep, followed by the most jewhilliken goshall-hemlock exposition of camels weth twisted tails, wappy-jawed giraffs and speckled hyenas from Farther India, squæking baboons with purple colored snoots, Early Rose dromedaries from Europe, slim-tailed birds of paradise, and big snakes from everywhere.

Guiteau and Miss Sweet.

About three years ago Guiteau got into trouble on account of a projected attack on Miss Ada Sweet, United States Pension Agent. He called on her and asked for em-ployment in the Pension Office, which she ployment in the Pension Office, which she refused to give him, whereupon he threat-ened to kill her. Before he could put his threat into execution, if, indeed, he ever really intended to do so, he was ejected from the office in no very gentle manner. Miss Sweet's account of the affair is as follows:

Miss Sweet's account of the anatr is as follows:

"About three years ago he made application in person for a position in the office. He afterward called at the office one day and said that he wanted to see me privately. Previous to his second visit he sent a long letter to me, which I had not read at the time or I should not have permitted him to see me. In the letter he claimed to be a lawyer, and said he was competent to fill lawyer, and said he was competent to fill any position under the Government. It any position under the Government. It was a crazy sort of letter. When he came in I had my back to him, and when I saw him he looked tired and weary, and so hopeless that I pitied him. I explained to him that I had plenty of help. All the time I was talking to him I noticed he looked very peculiar, and was endeavoring to smile. When I refused to employ him, he said: 'Perhaps you don't know who i am.' He then went on to say he was some great prophet, religious revivalist, or impression. great prophet, religious revivalist, or important personage. I did not pay much attention to what he said, as I saw he was insane. He then told me he was deterinsane. He then told me he was determined to have a position in my office, and said: If you don't give it to me you will be sorry.' I left him and passed into my private office, and the last words I heard him say was that he had a revolver. I did not see the revolver, and do not know that he attempted to use it. He was then taken out of the office, and I never saw him again nor received any more letters from him."
